Premium wine wholesaler NRJ Wines aims to guarantee deliveries within 24 hours to wine merchants, restaurants, luxury hotels and gourmet retailers in the Île-de-France region. To bolster its operations, the company implemented Mecalux's Easy WMS warehouse management system in its Champigny-sur-Marne facility, near Paris.

The software provides real-time monitoring of more than 550 SKUs while supporting NRJ Wines' evolving business model. Recently, the wholesaler launched a new line of business as a third-party logistics (3PL) provider. "We were looking for a solid technology platform that would allow us to grow without compromising the high standards that define our company. Easy WMS helps us structure our operations and confidently expand into new logistics services," says Co-Founder Nicolas Duval.

Traceability for more than 400,000 bottles a year

"Our portfolio is built around strict quality standards. We evaluate vintages, select the best wineries and identify the most promising grape varieties and appellations. That same level of rigour extends to our warehouse operations. We need complete control over the identification, monitoring and management of every SKU to ensure full traceability," says Duval.

Overseeing such a broad and specialised product portfolio is one of NRJ Wines' key operational challenges. With Easy WMS, the French company monitors inventory across a wide range of products, including red, white, rosé and sparkling wines, champagne, and organic, natural and biodynamic varieties. The facility also stores an extensive selection of spirits, such as whisky, rum, gin, cognac, vodka, Armagnac and other distilled beverages.

The Mecalux software also guides warehouse operators through one of NRJ Wines' most critical processes: order picking. Easy WMS directs these workers to the exact aisle and storage location of each SKU. This level of organisation is essential for shipping more than 400,000 bottles annually while ensuring deliveries within 24 hours throughout Paris and the surrounding metropolitan area. "Speed and reliability are fundamental to the reputation we've built with our clients," says Duval.

New chapter as a 3PL provider

To expand its market reach, NRJ Wines has launched a new phase of growth as a specialised 3PL provider serving wine and champagne producers. The company now offers logistics services to third parties while maintaining the same quality standards applied to its own operations.

Easy WMS ensures full traceability for more than 400,000 bottles handled annually by NRJ Wines

NRJ Wines implemented WMS for 3PL, an Easy WMS module that streamlines decision-making for storage, order picking and shipping activities. Through 3PL Client Portal, third-party companies gain complete visibility into their inventory. The module provides them with remote access to warehouse stock information in real time. Additionally, it allows them to request order fulfilment and shipping directly through the system.

NRJ Wines has also deployed Easy WMS's 3PL Billing module. The software automatically records warehouse operations performed — such as receiving, putaway, order processing and dispatch — and links them to the corresponding inventory owner and service rates. As a result, the wholesaler maintains detailed control over the services it provides while simplifying the management of its new third-party logistics business.

Technology that facilitates growth

Through partnerships with carefully selected wineries and producers from leading wine-growing regions, NRJ Wines has built a business centred on quality and authenticity. To maintain those standards, the company has invested in logistics processes that deliver consistency across every operation.

Easy WMS has become a cornerstone for structuring NRJ Wines' growth and optimising warehouse workflows, strengthening both its core distribution business and its new 3PL services. Thanks to this digital transformation, the company has established a solid foundation for continued expansion without compromising the service levels that set it apart.

“Easy WMS helps us structure our operations and confidently expand into new logistics services.”
